Based on Rosalyn's idea that "everyone needs green," the garden is pulled back from Alberta St., but still easily accessible, and provides a sanctuary from the busy area.

There is also a sculpture further down on 20th and Alberta that is in a corner lot with open grass. With garbage and junk scattered around the sculpture, this is a neglected green space that could use some revamping and care.